THANKS, IMPRINT, TEAM

Dr. Martin Kasper
Honorary President

Dear Friends, Partners and Supporters of Childaid Network

2018 was very successful for Childaid Network. With your support we were able to pave a path to a brighter future for many young people. In our annual report, we are pleased to present to you exemplary projects and events from this year.

A respected and valued advocate for deprived children

When it comes to the rights of children national media increasingly see our team as trusted experts. In 2018, we were able to reach several million people via television and radio specials, newspaper articles and the networks of our ambassadors. Thanks to this media presence, we were also able to raise funds for children who are exploited or have no access to education. Read more on pages 6 and 7, 10 to 13 and 34 and 35.

Good schools for all boys and girls

Fortunately, school enrolment is growing worldwide. However, based on the latest data from UNESCO, 617 million children are still not able to read and calculate. In our project areas, the majority of young people do not learn much in government schools. We explain how we change this in order to bring education to tens of thousands of young people in our project regions. See pages 16 to 29.

Childaid Network continues to grow

The enthusiasm of our team and the effectiveness of our projects motivate more and more people to engage themselves in, with and for Childaid Network. We are pleased with the high-quality additions to our team and to our partner and supporter networks. You can find details on pages 31,33 and 47.

Thank you for your trust

We are very grateful for many encouraging encounters, positive developments and your ongoing support. We aim to deepen this trust with high transparency and strict cost-consciousness. Our detailed figures tell how we use your donations in an effective manner. You will find them on pages 9, 17 and 38 to 43.

We kindly ask you to continue accompanying and supporting us.

Daniel Fischer

Radio- and TV Presenter

A popular presenter of the FFH-Morningshow, Daniel Fischer is known to a broad audience far beyond his home state of Hesse. He lives in Königstein with his wife Jasmin Pour and their three children.

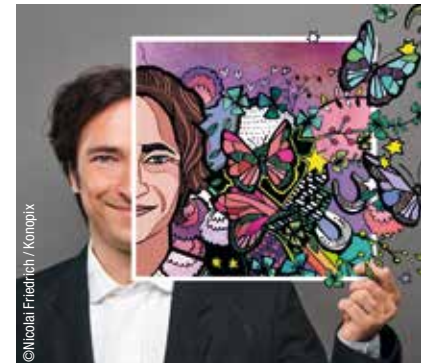

"As the father of three healthy children it is intolerable for me to see the misery in regions where Childaid Network operates. The more people feel like me and want to do something about it, the more we can achieve. For this, Childaid Network needs ever more attention and that is exactly where I want to help as a presenter. We should not accept that children grow up under such appalling circumstances."

Nicolai Friedrich

Winner of the World Championships in Mental Magics in Beijing 2009

Almost daily, Nicolai Friedrich has an audience marveling at his visual magic and inexplicable mental experiments. He lives in Bad Homburg.

"With my own eyes I have seen the distress and the hardship into which poor street children are born that mostly keep them enchained for life. Together, we can increase the awareness level for this great organization i.e. with events, so that we can break the vicious cycle of poverty. It is a great honor for me and a matter close to my heart to support the team of Childaid Network with my involvement."

Ursula Karven

Actress, Yoga Teacher, Entrepreneur and Writer

Since 1982, Ursula Karven has been famous for acting in numerous outstanding movie engagements.

Meanwhile, she is also active as an entrepreneur and writer of yoga books. She is a mother of three children and lives in Berlin.

"I have personally experienced the indescribable poverty of the children in Assam! No child should live like that! However, I came back inspired because Childaid Network does such an incredibly good job getting the children out of garbage dumps and away from the slums, taking them to centers for children and making sure they are taken care of effectively."

Mitri Sirin

TV Presenter

Since 2013, Mitri Sirin is the anchor presenter at the ZDF Morning Magazine. Before that, he worked for different TV and radio channels as a presenter and reporter. He lives in Berlin with his wife Friederike and their three children.

"I am full of gratitude that last autumn, as ambassador, I was able to visit many of our project areas. That trip has opened my eyes and shown to me the circumstances under which the children there have to grow up and eke out a living. I have observed close-up what Childaid achieves, and from that a very intense feeling has grown. A feeling, that carries all of us, and its name is – hope."

Childaid Network – let's unite for the children's right to education

Our Vision – Education for All

We support the education of children and adolescents in need, as this helps to eliminate poverty and to create a perspective for a better future. Only through access to education the poorest of the poor will have a chance to build a better life for themselves, their families and their village communities. We target long-term, sustainable improvements in their living situation.

Reliable Partners on Site

Our network in the project areas consists of trusted partners from the respective cultures. They know the hardships of the children and families, speak their language and understand what is needed. They share our vision. With the help of personal connections and close cooperation locally, we can implement our projects effectively.

Personal and Engaged

Our team is united by a vision: We want to achieve equal access to education for all children. We commit our time, our money, and our talents for this to become a reality. For you and our partners, we are fully engaged.

Network for Children

Lovingly and cooperatively, professionally and sustainably – this is how we wish to act for the children. We are networking with strong partners in the project regions and in Germany. We live partnership and networking as together we are stronger and better.

Effective and Sustainable

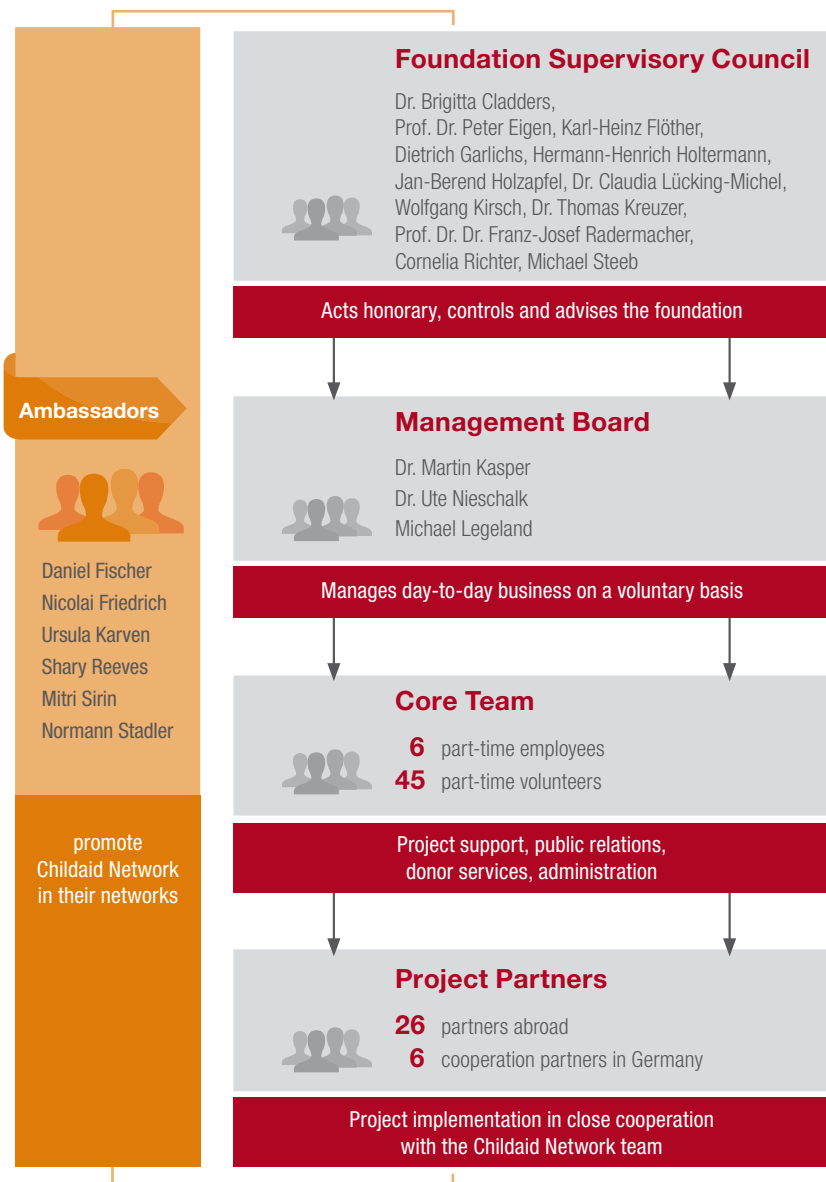

To move a lot with very little – that is our approach. We therefore invest donations into teacher training and social worker deployment rather than into buildings. We strive for structural change. When visiting, we motivate the local people and encourage them to take charge to build a better future. We do not give alms, but stimulate self-help.

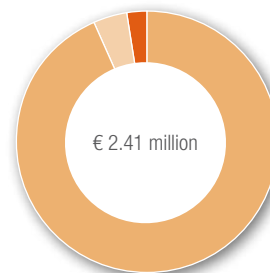

Cost-effective and Transparent

Our team mainly works on a voluntary basis. As such, our cost for administration and donor services are just 6.58 % of income. We benefit from the oversight and guidance of our renowned Foundation Supervisory Council. Independent financial auditors, the DZI (German Central Institute for Social Issues), the government and the tax authorities examine us regularly. We attach great importance to transparency. Be assured: your help will reach where it is needed!

Education is the key to life

On the following pages, we present four selected projects to you. They stand for over 30 projects of Childaid Network in particularly poor and disadvantaged regions. Currently, these projects include around 30,000 young people in four countries and three project categories: school programs, vocational training, and projects to fight poverty and support child rights.

UNESCO has recently published a study which shows that 617 million young people, i.e. more than 50 %, still do not learn to properly read or calculate. The problem is even worse in our project regions. A lot remains to be done.

Geographical focus for higher effectiveness

Our project work is concentrated on Northeast India and Nepal. In addition, we support projects in Myanmar and Bangladesh. Focus is important. Only then do we succeed in understanding the local situation, in developing sustainable partnerships, and in providing support in an effective manner.

Emphasis on education

Content wise we also have a clear focus: We want to provide young people with access to education and vocational training. That is the best investment into their future. In doing so, we focus on disadvantaged marginalized groups like minorities, street children, refugees, and the rural youth in areas without infrastructure, the poorest of the poor, who otherwise are without any opportunities.

From service provider to change agent

We do not create parallel structures and do not take over tasks that the government has promised to do. We see our role in initiating and accelerating change processes. Therefore, our programs include bridging courses, tutoring for exams, coaching of deprived children, and, increasingly, accompanying government schools to achieve quality education.

Sustainable and effective

What makes our projects special: meticulous planning and piloting, monitoring of their effectiveness, and intensive personal supervision by experts.

Ten criteria for project success

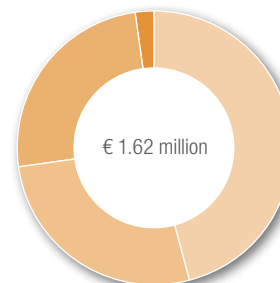

- We support the poorest of the poor
- We study the situation in the field and analyze the problems
- We start projects only where there is demand from those affected
- We demand a local contribution and promote local commitment
- We supplement the government educational program, but do not replace it
- We design the projects carefully with village communities and experts
- We pilot the concepts and improve them step-by-step
- We ensure good supervision and promote the exchange of experience
- We set goals, measure the results, and evaluate the achievements
- We define clear criteria for exit

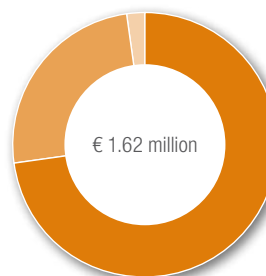

Dr. Peter and Elisabeth Mott
2017, the Mott family has integrated their charitable trust foundation into Childaid Network.

"We have often asked ourselves: How can we do something effectively, really sustainably against the misery in the world? After a trip to Northeast India, we have come to the conviction that education, especially for disadvantaged groups, is a very decisive key. Therefore, we are very happy to support the purposeful and efficient work of Childaid Network."

Northeast India – the unknown poorhouse

We have started in Northeast India - a region as big as Western Germany with 45 million inhabitants. Little known, under-developed, with an average per capita income of less than one Euro per day, it is one of the poorest regions in the world. In the mountains of Northeast India, four out of ten children die before their fifth birthday due to malnutrition, lack of health care and poor education of their parents. Since 2009, we have been the largest relief organization there. We will continue to support the people until they have established a base and can take their lives into their own hands.

Nepal – emergency on the roof of the world

Nepal is the destination of many tourists. However, the living situation of the locals is often precarious. Especially after the 2015 earthquakes, Nepal remains one of the poorest countries in the world. Away from the trekking routes, basic education remains poor and income low. So, the young men hire on as laborers abroad to secure the survival of their families. In the last 30 years, teams from Wiesbaden (Kinder-von-Bhandar) and Kronberg (Initiative Kronberg 96) have provided basic education to a whole region. These programs are now an integral part of our organization's work.

Bangladesh – a country at the crossroads

This most densely populated country on earth has made great progress in recent decades. The children mostly go to elementary school now. With micro-credits, millions have established a livelihood. However, the government lacks resources for education. In particular, the ethnic minorities in the north are neglected. We are allied with strong local partners and offer a chance to a better livelihood through education.

Myanmar – a country in turbulent change

The country appeared to be on its way to democracy. In the cities, there was a sense of change and investments were made. However, the turmoil of 2018 has shown that minorities continue to face massive persecution and discrimination, also from the authorities. Not only the Rohingyas in the south, but also large parts of the rural population in the north live in abject poverty. We have started to implement a number of initially small projects with robust, well rooted partners.

Promotion of preschool children

Development of talent has to start early

Conventional wisdom says, “what little John does not learn, John will never learn.” Science confirms the importance of addressing all senses for the development of the children early. When toddlers are encouraged to explore their environment and to literally grasp it, then learning processes will succeed much more easily later on.

Realities of life

The tough life in the village communities in our project regions does not provide people with a lot of space and energy to take care of small children. Often, the mother returns to the tough physical labor on far away fields immediately after giving birth. The children in the village are left to themselves. Four- to six-year-olds are already looking after their younger siblings. Diseases are overlooked, nutrition is inadequate, development is hardly being fostered.

Our project approach

Almost all children in our project areas are enrolled into school. However, the public schools are lacking quality. Therefore, we have developed model projects and engage already at preschool age. We train child care workers who look after children in small groups during the day. Following the well-proven Montessori methods, the children playfully acquire new skills. An additional, well balanced meal, sports, and play contribute to a healthy development.

How to continue

We scale these project models in many regions. We have the commitment of the government that they will finance these institutions – we provide our support in the start-up phase so that toddlers are well prepared for school.

Highlights 2018

- 7 Anganwadi village schools in rural Tamenglong (Manipur) were developed into exemplary institutions
- The Kinderhaus in Bhandar was upgraded to a Montessori center and will provide day care from 2019 onwards
- In Ramechhap district (Nepal), we put special focus on the support for toddlers in preschool classes in 50 schools
- Early childhood development is an essential building block in our program for public schools in Bangladesh

INFORMATION

Our partner AIDA has collected statistical data on child mortality via a systematic survey of mothers in the mountains of Arunachal Pradesh: four out of ten children die before reaching the age of 5.

Dr. Sunil Kaul, experienced physician and chairman of our project partner the ant, with his team has conducted a systematic examination of the health situation of the minority children in western Assam in the summer of 2018: 2/3 of the children are more than 5 cm shorter than the statistical reference group – a clear indication of malnutrition.

(compare India, National Family Health Survey 2015-16)

We supported in 2018:

1 Montessori model center in Nepal

7 model preschools for 294 children in Tamenglong

Catching up: Basic literacy for young people

No access to elementary education

Overwhelmingly, the adults in our project regions are illiterate. Nowadays, most of the children are sent to school. But due to the lack of quality education in public schools they are not learning much. Without a good elementary education, the people remain stuck in the vicious cycle of poverty. Therefore, in evening schools, we continue to provide adolescents with a second chance for a self-determined future.

Development of personalities

In doing so, we pursue a holistic approach: On top of reading, writing and arithmetic, essential topics like hygiene, health and high-yield agricultural methods are taught. The diversified tuition considers the individual state of education and skills. After three to four years, the adolescents not only become literate. They also develop into self-confident personalities – and many soon assume leadership roles in their villages.

Involvement of local leadership

Using accompanying village councils, we involve the village communities in the projects. They mobilize the young people, organize rooms for teaching and take care of the improvement of elementary schools simultaneously.

Our goal: make ourselves redundant

Our concept proves to be sustainable: In about 400 villages, we terminated the training because our mission is completed and the elementary schools are now functioning. Instead, every year we open new evening schools in even more remote regions.

Highlights 2018

- New school clusters in the mountains of Meghalaya
- Standardized evaluation of learning progress for all students
- Training of teachers in new methods
- Support of applications for birth certificates and opening of bank accounts
- Formation of self-help groups and training on how to manage money
- Linking with offerings for vocational training

INFORMATION

- The project was piloted already in 2007 and extended step-by-step
- In total, almost € 1.7 million have been invested into this program so far
- Currently, we support 92 evening schools with about 3,000 students
- More than 20,000 teenagers have already become literate
- We have terminated our support in 400 villages because the elementary schools are working now

VOCATIONAL TRAINING

Qualification and income provide for a future

Left behind

Hardly any of the workers on the Nepalese construction sites in mountainous Bhandar were born there. Also, in Northeast India, despite the current building boom, locals struggle to find a job. Without vocational qualification, the young people can only work as day laborers. They lose out in the competition for permanent employment.

Qualified

During the past twelve years, Childaid Network has helped more than 150,000 young people to become literate. But reading and arithmetic alone do not fill the stomach. To create income opportunities locally and to indirectly slow down the rural exodus, Childaid Network is investing into vocational qualification. Since 2011, more than 14,000 unemployed youth have been trained in over 20 professions. Most of them are now being employed.

Self-employed

Some work as employees. Many of our alumni try to become micro entrepreneurs. We support them by providing start-up financing, encouraging the formation of co-operatives and offering training in business planning. For the first time, in 2018, we have organized a competition to award innovative business ideas and to facilitate the exchange among like-minded people.

What comes next?

We want to further improve the quality of the training courses with digital education materials like video clips and internet courses. We now also offer courses in information technology, for example web design. We are successfully integrating local employers: they add know-how free of charge, provide connections and teachers for our trainings – thereby improving the quality and creating opportunities for employment.

Highlights 2018

- Two hostels for external trainees were added to the new technical center in Amguri (Assam)
- In Jorhat (Assam) we started – supported by public grants – a big center to promote innovation and start-ups
- The cooperation with local employers, such as Yamaha, Vertex Solar, Tata, Taj Hotels and others, was intensified
- In the Ramechhap district in Nepal, we successfully launched the program to provide vocational training for 1,000 young people
- In a competitive setting we identified young entrepreneurial talents whom we are now supporting further

We supported in 2018

2,200 trainees in 15 trades and crafts

Approx. 10,000 indirectly benefitting family members

155 small entrepreneurs with trainees

STREET CHILDREN

A future for street children and children without families

Development requires a feeling of security

Normally, families are the best environment for children. If there is no family or if it fails in the upbringing, the children need a supplementary family-like environment that provides them with the feeling of security and enables good development. A children's home is only a makeshift solution. Better care is provided by small communities like foster families.

Caring Environment

We and our partners live up to this conviction. Wherever possible, we integrate children who ran away or were separated from their families back into their communities and support them there. In Nepal, we presently reintegrate many of the children from the Kinderhaus into their original family or into a loving foster family. These processes have to be carefully planned and must be accompanied long-term.

Children homes can be a family substitute

However, such a solution is not available for all children. Orphans, abandoned children, children rescued from human trafficking and traumatized children as well as differently abled children need professional long-term attendance. The teams in our homes create family-like structures and are specially trained. Close, sibling-like relationships as well as the daily dealings with each other in the homes prove that integration can be achieved.

Paths towards independence

Our assistance does not end with the coming-of-age but only with successful education or vocational qualification.

Highlights 2018

- 86 of the 88 Snehalaya home children, who are now young adults, are pursuing a good path towards education and profession – also thanks to our continued support
- Our ambassador Mitri Sirin visits the projects for the street children in Guwahati and shares his impressions in a moving video

PROJECT PARTNERS AND NETWORKS

Cross-linked with competent partners

Strong partners abroad

In our project areas, we team up with reliable partners from the respective local background. They understand the hardships of the people, speak their language, and know what is missing. Because they are rooted there and share our vision, our projects can be implemented effectively and quickly in close cooperation with the people. In 2018, we had twenty-six such partnerships (see box on the right side).

Alliances with like-minded people in Germany

In Germany, we ally ourselves with qualified and experienced organizations to make our projects even more effective. We jointly apply for government grants and exchange know-how. Thus, we are broadening our competences and reach. Eventually, this benefits the people in our target communities. In 2018, we had specific partnership projects with the Accenture Foundation, Die Sternsinger e.V., People in Need – Gerhard Baumgard Foundation, the Association for Development Cooperation (AGEH) e.V., Netz e.V. and Initiative Kronberg 96 e.V.

Supporting Partners

Some organizations have financial means, but not the organizational resources to spend them effectively. They are unable to invest their funds abroad in line with their visions and cannot closely supervise such projects. Foundations and other charitable organizations increasingly choose Childaid Network to effectively and efficiently implement their goals for the benefit of poor children abroad. We are grateful for the trust and additional expertise that we can gain from these cooperations. In 2018, we received funds, earmarked for specific purposes, from more than a dozen such partner organizations.

Abi Thapa
Project Manager Nepal

“The quality education project supports 50 schools in Nepal, and has been promoted by Childaid Network since 2012. After the devastating earthquakes of 2015, ten new schools were built within this program together with the Initiative Kronberg, offering the children and adolescents of the region a chance to better education and life. As part of the Nepal team, I would like to thank the dedicated German team of Childaid Network.”

CHARITY EVENTS

Networks and events for children – get involved!

Why does poverty still exist? Why do people starve or die from preventable diseases? Why can children not go to school? The reasons are not only lacking funds or concepts. Our conviction is that this is also the effect of the lack of cooperation and transparency and of wrong priorities. We as Childaid Network have set ourselves the goal to bring the like-minded together, multiply successful concepts and advocate for the best ideas and talents in our network.

The success of Childaid Network proves our approach: It is the result of the activities of many people in our network. Nobody could have done this alone. Together we move a lot. Our philosophy: good ideas are infectious. The wheel does not need to get re-invented. Somewhere, there is somebody who knows how to do it and is ready to help.

Michael Stein
Managing Director Palast Promotion

"To give children a future, who are our future, is the avowed goal of Childaid Network. We were happy to whole-heartedly support this with our event "Night of Music" in the Kurhaus Wiesbaden. It has exceeded all of our expectations that 25,000 € were raised during the two-day event."

Notes on the Balance Sheet

Noticeably enhanced substance

At 2,645,981 € per 31.12.2018, Childaid Network displays a year-on-year balance sheet total increase of almost 30 %. The substance of the foundation was noticeably strengthened by a supplementary endowment and further reserves. In the past ten years, the assets have more than quintupled. The level of reserves allows continuous funding of projects even if yearly incomes fluctuate.

Reserves for sustainable implementation of projects

The liabilities side of the balance sheet displays the growth from an excellent year 2018 in all categories. The project related provisions of the previous year were used up for projects in 2018. New, slightly higher provisions were booked for a vocational training center in Assam and investment projects in Nepal for which we received public grants in 2018 that could not be invested in 2018 anymore.

As in previous years, a reserve for restricted purposes was formed according to § 62 Sec. 1 No. 1 AO. It amounts to just above 140,000 € and consists of dedicated donations which could not be spent in 2018. The unrestricted reserves were increased in line with § 62 Sec. 1 No. 3 AO by the maximum possible amount of 210,000 € up to 1,170,000 € to buffer income fluctuations in the future.

The inheritance that has been booked against claims in the previous year has now been received, enabling us to reduce claims to the usual low level.

Development of the endowment funds

Due to a supplementary endowment of 250,000 €, endowment funds increased to 765,500 €. In addition, we hold 1.03 million € of charitable trust foundation money as special assets. The good income situation allowed us to add to our general reserves as well as to show increased funds carried forward of more than 326,000 €.

Supervision and non-profit status

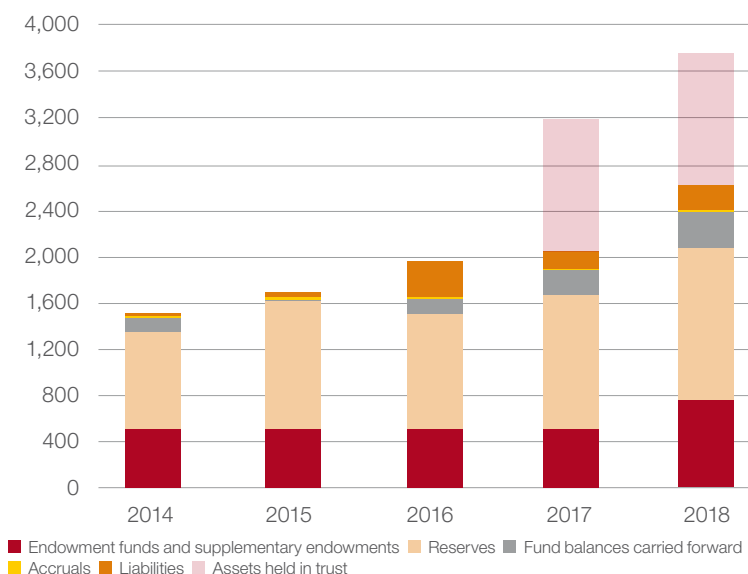

Childaid Network was recognized as a judicable foundation by the Supervisory Body in Darmstadt on April 27th, 2007 at AZ | 13-25d 04/11-(4)-146. The revenue office Bad Homburg regularly confirms the non-profit status of the foundation, most recently on July 13th, 2018.

Audit of the annual accounts

Childaid Network voluntarily submits to various external audits. The DZI audits processes and expenses based on transparent criteria (cf. p.40). The 2018 annual accounts of Childaid Network were once again audited by chartered accountants from Baker Tilly GmbH & Co. KG, Frankfurt. On March 25nd, 2019, they issued an unqualified auditor's report and opinion.

We are happy to mail upon request to those interested the audit opinion, our detailed annual report and the assessment of the DZI. These documents are also available on our website.

Notes on the Profit and Loss Statement

Substantial increase of income

At 2.44 million € (previous year 1.62 million €), Childaid Network reports an increase of total income of more than 50 %. Especially ordinary grants (donations) grew by almost 50 % to 2.06 million € (previous year 1.39 million €). Also contributing to the growth was the over-proportional increase of other operating income by almost two thirds from 228,011.57 € to 381,218.44 €, mostly public grants for projects. The financial result of just above 12,000 € again only added a small contribution to the total.

Increasing trust – increasing network

Very generous contributions from major donors, the deepened trust of supporting partners and the broadening of our donor network, partially with the help of charity galas, effective public relations and the support from our ambassadors, resulted in an excellent level of donations. Growing trust in our work is also evidenced by a supplementary endowment, an inheritance and many long-term commitments from donors and partners as well as the continued increase of average donation amounts.

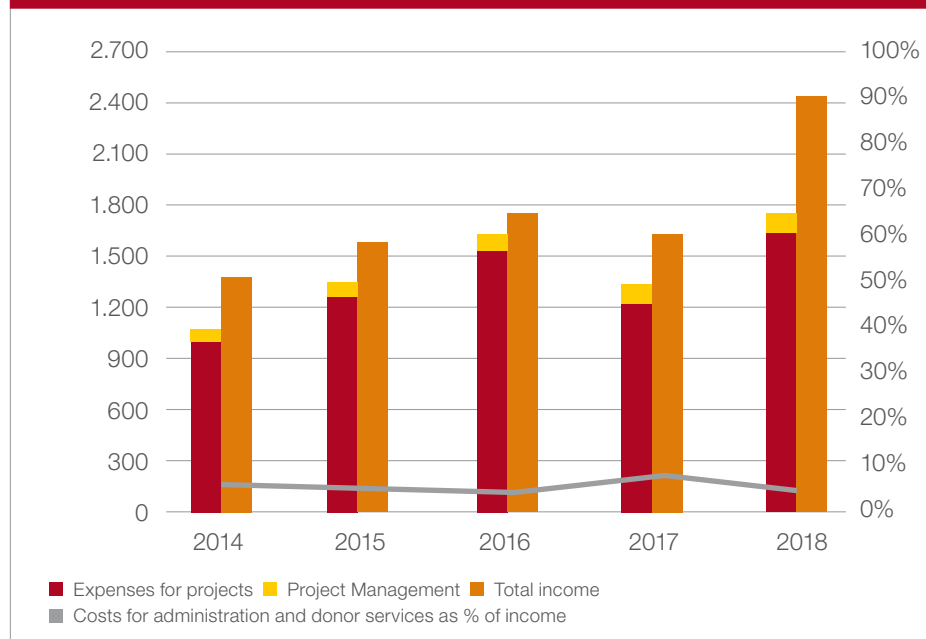

Decreasing cost ratio

After netting out the expenses for the taxable economic business, our cost for administration, donor services, public relations and project management increased just slightly from approx. 220,000 € to only 230,000 € (by less than 5 %). Following the calculation methods of the DZI, our cost for administration, public relations and donor services are about 6.58 % of income.

Further project expansion

Charitable activities in 2018 amount to 1.618 million € (previous year 1.194 million €), an increase of about 36 %. The outflow of funds was slightly lower at 1.567 million € because the use of accruals (reserved project funds booked in the previous year that were only paid out in 2018) was overcompensated by newly booked liabilities for expenses in 2019.

Development of the total income and project expenses (1,000 €) in comparison to the development of administrative costs in percent

Further notes

- We have published the full annual accounts since 2007 and audit reports since 2009 on our website www.childaid.net in the General Information section.
- In previous years, a large amount of project expenditures went to projects which were run jointly with our supporting partners. Since 2017, Childaid Network has executed projects largely by itself.

Key Figures and Analysis

Project expansion

Project expenditures, i.e. our investment into education projects for children, were further increased based on our growing income. 2018 project expenditures were at 1.618 million €, about one third higher than in 2017. Project work continued to be focused on Northeast India and Nepal. The foundation plans, however, to substantially expand the projects in Bangladesh and Myanmar in the coming years.

Wide reach

With three main project pillars (school projects, street children and vocational training), we are now reaching significantly more than 30,000 young people every year. Our focus is on children and adolescents from marginalized groups such as minorities, refugees and rural youths who otherwise do not have access to education.

Michael Steeb

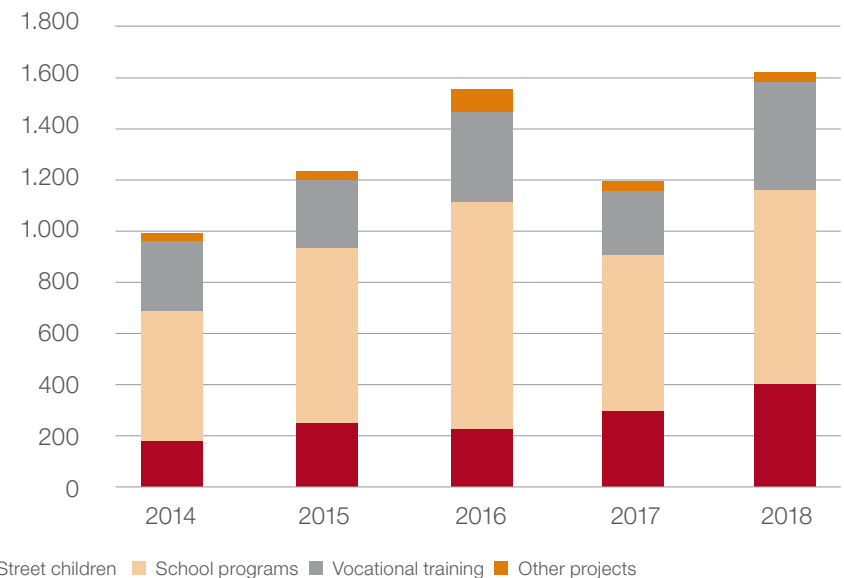

Former Director Association for Development Cooperation (AGEH) e.V.
An active member of the Foundation Supervisory Council since the establishment of Childaid Network in 2007

“To be able to serve on the Supervisory Council of such a dynamic organization as Childaid Network that commits itself with great voluntary engagement, high creativity and professional competence to the most important capital on our earth, the children, was a huge pleasure for me and a personal enrichment.”

Principles of funds utilization

A large part of our funds is used for salaries of teachers and social workers as well as for trainings. However, 2018 investment projects also had a significant share of project volume. 2018 we financed the construction of two children's homes in Guwahati and Bongaigaon and the building of another vocational training center in Assam. The school reconstruction work in Nepal is largely completed.

Development project expenditures by project categories (1,000 €)

Lean cost structure despite investments

In 2018, our total cost in Germany came to about 230,000 €, including staff cost for up to six part-time employees. Cost for donor services, including public relations, and general administration amounted to approx. 159,000 €, representing approx. 6.58 % of income, percentage-wise noticeably below last year's level (8.47 %). We have thus continued our significant growth while maintaining a very lean cost structure.

Major voluntary engagement

Our costs are so low because the work of the foundation is mainly carried out by volunteers. Management Board, Supervisory Council, editors, graphic designers, part of the project management, web design and many other tasks are being carried out by unpaid experts. A benevolent company provides us with cost-free office space. Auditors, banks and suppliers grant us preferential terms.

100€

is sufficient to provide an unemployed youth with a job qualification

150€

per month is sufficient to maintain a preschool class with three skilled staff and to additionally provide the children with a healthy meal per day

Our vision

Every girl and every boy
attends school

Our goal for 2019

At least 40,000 children will get education because of our support

Our promise

We invest your support effectively and sustainably into the education of deprived children

What comes next? A short outlook for 2019

We started the year 2019 with a lot of momentum. We want to make good use of the excellent cash situation due to the donations in 2018, of our grown team and of increased public recognition to achieve even more for marginalized children.

Here are some examples:

Talent development in remote villages

Our projects are often located in difficult to reach mountain regions without infrastructure. Parents hardly know about the importance of stimulating the talents of their children. If we want to act sustainably, we have to start with the smallest: We are therefore increasingly initiating nursery schools and Montessori-centers for toddlers to support talents and develop children's joy for learning.

Child-centered pedagogy for successful learning

Nowadays, almost all children in our project areas are enrolled in school, but learning results at the public schools are not satisfactory. We have run pilot projects to test how this can be changed with child-centered teaching and mobile teachers. In 2019, we will extend our projects to more than 300 schools.

New partners and project regions

Together with a strong partner, we are starting to support education for 18,000 children in Northern Bangladesh, close to our focus project area Assam. In the neighborhood of our educational activities in Meghalaya, Manipur and Arunachal Pradesh, we also initiate comparable projects across the border in Northern Myanmar. In Nepal and Northeast India, we complement our work with new partner organizations.

Working in a network

In 2019, we want to further expand our co-operation with politicians, scientists and experts to create a broader understanding on our concerns for educational justice and to perform successful advocacy work. Our projects can only have a lasting effect if the setting allows people to shape their own destiny and to strengthen their self-responsibility.

Winning lasting support

Our team, our ambassadors and maybe you as well, help us to find new friends for our work. Besides personal recommendations and events we are increasingly using national and digital media.

We warmly thank you for your continued support.

We would like to express our cordial gratitude

- to all the donors who make our projects possible
- to all the partners, other foundations, schools, clubs and companies for their activities, support and accompaniment
- to our many volunteers, advisers and fundraisers who contribute to our wonderful progress with their time, ideas and expertise

This is how you can provide a future to children:

Donation

Every help counts and reaches the poor, donating online is the easiest way. If you would like to receive a donation receipt, please remember to provide us with your address details.

Activity

You would like to organize a charity run? Mobilize your colleagues? Combine the Christmas raffle with a good cause? This is meaningful and creates success.

Last will donation

This is how you can have an effect and help beyond your life – leave a legacy to Childaid Network in your will.

Sponsorship

A commitment to donate regularly by SEPA-Direct-Debit allows us to plan reliably and minimize administrative costs. Kindly send us your commitment, an informal note will do.

Celebrating for the benefit of children

Donations instead of presents – to ask for donations on festive occasions, such as weddings, jubilees or birthdays, provides lasting enjoyment.

Supplementary endowments or trust foundation

You can increase the capital stock of the Childaid Network foundation with a supplementary endowment. With a charitable trust foundation under the umbrella and trusteeship of Childaid Network you will help sustainably – and stay in touch.
